“ Kristin and Eric,

You probably don't remember much about the beautiful canopy crib that you slept in for the first months of your lives, but I do--Kay generously passed on the crib to my babies, Lucy and Jay, where they also slept during their precious first years of life. I hope you remember stopping by my house in Brentwood to see your crib's second life with my family. We also have a favored Christmas angel ornament that Kay made for Lucy--it has been lovingly displayed at Christmas for the last 30 years. She certainly was a creative and talented artist.

I remember that Kay was always the first to send out her Christmas greetings--receiving her holiday card was my reminder to get busy with holiday traditions!

Whenever Janine and I visited her in Troy she was so gracious and kind, always ready to share pictures and stories about you and her grandchildren. She was so proud of you.

Every time the kids and I look at a photo of them playing or sleeping in their crib, I will remind Lucy and Jay of the story about my cousin Kay giving us your crib. And at Christmas when I bring out the angel ornament, I will be thinking of Kay. She will be fondly remembered for her kindness and generosity to my family.

I am sure that Kay is now enjoying perfect rest. May you also find perfect peace remembering your mother.

With love and hugs,
Rise (Lucy and Jay, too!)

“ Beautiful in Blue was purchased for the family of Sandra "Kay" Campbell Zappe.

“ Kay was a classmate of mine from first grade through high school. She always had the highest grades in the class and was a natural leader. It was always a treat to see Kay at our class reunions. I have many fond memories of activities that Kay was involved in which I'm sure are shared by many other classmates.

My sincere condolences to the family. Rest in peace, dear friend!
